Createspace, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 198 x 129 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.In Faith In Action: What You Believe Defines You the author discusses some basics of the Christian faith that are the root elements of many of the disputes and debates of morality that face the Christian community today. Six topics are discussed, starting with an examination of the 95 Theses by Martin Luther which was the catalyst of the division of the Christian faith in the Reformation. Too few of today's youth or adults have ever investigated what was the catalyst that created the divisions in the Christian faith that we witness today. It is presented for the reader to evaluate and determine the validity for themselves. This is followed by an examination of some of the prevalent interpretations of the Christian faith today in the chapter Innocence Assumed, Without Works with many references to the Holy Scriptures for the reader's thought and consideration on the current trends in prosperity gospel and righteousness theology. This moves us into some of the more basic, foundational issues facing the youth of today with discussions on what defines Real Love, developing a moral compass in today's confusing world with Finding Your Self-Worth, walking through adversity to develop virtue in Of Virtue Vice. The series ends on a very important aspect of how the Father created us when we examine the reality of our free wills and ability to make choices in Discussion of Free Will. You are the master of your own destiny and Christ is the Rock of our Salvation.
